Anne Pichon "Sauvage" Syrah/Grenache

The holidays are a time for decadence, so this month we're featuring a big bold red from an outstanding organic and biodynamic producer in the Rhone Valley of France. "Sauvage" means wild, as they are fermented using only the native yeasts that are naturally present in the vineyards. This blend of 80% Syrah and 20% Grenache is bold and dense, there is a core of ripe fruit accentuated by warming herb and spice notes. As a gift wine it's sure to impress even the pickiest connoisseurs on your list, and as a food wine it's going to be a rock start with prime rib, roast lamb, and other rich holiday meals.
